VICE-PRESIDENT SHERMAN AT DEATH'S DOOR

CHEATHAM IS CHIEF NOW

Army Department Consolidation Goes Into Effect Here Next Friday

Next Friday, November 1, the amalgamation of the pay and subsistence departments of the army with the quartermaster's department, under the name of the quartermaster's corps, goes into effect, and two important offices in this department will have an entirely new status. Special orders of the War Department which have reached department headquarters last Saturday direct Major B. Frank Cheatham to report to General Miscomb as chief quartermaster of the Department of Hawaii, Captains Frank R. Edwards and Clifford Gage reporting for duty as his assistants, and Captain D. B. Case, now senior commissary, and Captain E. H. Cooke, now pay officer, also reporting for duty to the department commander.

With Major Cheatham and Captains Edwards and Gage there is practically no change of status, for since the arrival here of the former he has held the post of chief quartermaster, while Captain Edwards has been running the construction end of the office and Captain Gage the depot quartermaster's office.

The real change comes in the position of Captain Case and Captain Cooke, who have not been directly under this department, but have been known respectively as assistant to the chief commissary of the Western Division, and assistant to the paymaster of the Western Division. Under the new ruling they now belong exclusively to the Department of Hawaii, as members of the new Q. M. corps.

As a matter of fact the change will make little difference with the duties of each, for the present at any rate. Each of these officers will continue to maintain his Honolulu office, and there will be no attempt to consolidate and then re-divide the work of the several departments.

It is only a matter of a short time before there will be an increase in the quartermaster's corps here, for under the new ruling of the last congress it will be necessary to send a regularly detailed quartermaster to act as post quartermaster at Schofield Barracks. That post is now held by Captain Benjamin Watkins, but owing to the strict ruling as to detached service, he can no longer act for more than his own regiment, the Second Infantry.

KAIMUKI VOTERS WILL HEAR COTTRILL

Kaimuki this evening receives the attention of the candidates on the Republican ticket. Plans have been made for a big "get-together" event. The Kaimuki section is an important factor in the political situation. That part of town has grown so, and is so full of patriots, that it is a very important division of the city. Intense interest is taken in politics and there is bound to be a fine crowd when the meeting opens at 7 o'clock this evening at the Kaimuki school house. There will be the usual accompaniment of good music, so that, between the addresses of the various candidates, there will be other entertainment for the people.

The chief drawing card on the program of speeches will undoubtedly prove to be the address of United States Internal Revenue Collector Cottrill, whose campaign talks are famous not only here but on the United States mainland. Cottrill is eloquent, logical, entertaining, witty and convincing. His address will be instructive and full of lively interest. He will give his hearers an inner glimpse of the political situation and his presentation of facts will certainly please the people in the big and important precinct of Kaimuki.

HAWAIIAN IS SUICIDE ON CHIYO MARU

Honolulu Boy, Joseph Hamauku, Takes Life as Vessel Enters Harbor

DESPONDENT, HE PREFERS POISON TO LIFE HERE

Swallows Contents of Carbollic Acid Bottle and Dies Shortly

Swallowing the contents of an 8-ounce bottle of carbollic acid within sight of his native city, Joseph A. Hamauku, a resident of Honolulu who was returning from a five months' visit to Japan as a passenger in the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner Chiyo Maru, died in awful agony on board that vessel shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The suicide of young Hamauku took place while the liner was riding at anchor pending the granting of pratique by the federal quarantine medical officers.

Hamauku is alleged to have become despondent over financial matters, according to a story related by officers in the Chiyo Maru.

Despondent and Without Funds. Despondency settled down upon the young Hawaiian on the return trip to Honolulu. Dr. Gordon Porter, surgeon in the Chiyo Maru stated today that Hamauku talked with him concerning his homecoming. He appeared to dread the return to the Hawaiian Islands, giving as his reason that he was without funds and had no means of recuperating his wasted fortune. From what could be gathered, the young man had spent all his money in Japan and believed that he would land here practically penniless.

Pursued by Delusions. Hamauku was a second-class passenger. He sailed for Japan some six months ago as a passenger in the Shinyo Maru. It was then understood that he might finally decide upon making his home either in China or journey down into the Philippines. Upon leaving Honolulu, where he had been employed from time to time after leaving school, the young man claimed that he possessed several friends in the Far East who stood ready to assist him to lucrative employment.

Apparently he failed to connect with work while in the East and his small store of funds gradually but surely dwindled until Hamauku found himself with but sufficient to secure a second class ticket to Honolulu. It was while Dr. Porter and Gillette, the Federal quarantine officers, were engaged in the rounding-up of the second class passengers in the Chiyo Maru that the Hawaiian was misled in the ranks. Inquiry was made of Dr. Porter, who immediately realized what might have happened. As he left the local quarantine officers for the quarters of second-class passengers, he met a Japanese boy who told him that a man had just taken some kind of poison and was lying on a cottee writhing in agony.

Dr. Porter, soon came upon Hamauku, the carbollic acid had then begun its deadly work. Dr. Porter rendered first aid to the young man in the way of powerful emetics, and employed a stomach pump to remove the acid. The poison had, however, proved effectual and despite all efforts made by the ship's medical officer, Hamauku died within a few minutes after swallowing the fatal dose.

His mouth was frightfully burned through the acid.

Family Lives Here. Hamauku has a brother residing in this city. He is an employee of the Honolulu Iron Works, and also a baseball player of considerable note. The relative was immediately notified of the sad fate of his brother through wireless message and visited the ship side this afternoon to attend to the disposition of the remains.

Hamauku who decided to terminate his life in such tragic manner was twenty seven years old. He was in good health and last evening informed Dr. Porter and other American officers in the Chiyo Maru that he felt in better spirit than for some time past. Before arrival at Honolulu the young man had expressed a desire to remain with the vessel in the capacity of sailor or steward's assistant. It was told that it would be impossible to employ him on the vessel.

From the time of leaving Yokohama until the hour set for the suicide the young man appeared to dread his return to Honolulu.

Coroner Rose was called to the charge of the remains. An inquest will be held at later date.

R. W. Shingle, chairman of the Republican Territorial Central Committee, who went to Hilo to meet Prince Kuhio, will return tomorrow morning in the Mauna Loa.

Noted Suffragist To Speak Here Tonight

MRS. CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT
Famous campaigner for "Votes for Women" who arrived here today on world-tour and who will speak at opera house tonight.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, a leading figure in equal suffrage work, and one of America's most prominent women, arrived in Honolulu this afternoon on the Japanese liner Chiyo Maru and will lecture at the Opera House tonight at 8:15 o'clock. Wireless arrangements for the lecture were made by Mrs. J. M. Dowsett, president of the National Women's Equal Suffrage Association of Hawaii. This morning Mrs. Dowsett was able to announce that Mrs. Catt would speak here. The lecture will be free to all.

The distinguished suffragist was re-elected president of the International Alliance at a meeting in Stockholm, Sweden, some months ago, and at once undertook a tour of the world in furtherance of the ballot for women. She is now on the last lap of a long journey, during which she has spoken in many countries and carried the banner of suffrage often where it has been little heard of.

Mrs. Catt is well known both in America and in Europe for she has taken an important part in Woman's Suffrage for many years and has lectured in nearly every state in the Union and in almost every country in Europe. Just what phase of suffrage she will speak on tonight is not known for the only communication she has had with the president of the National Women's Equal Suffrage Alliance in Honolulu has been through a wireless sent by Mrs. Dowsett last evening.

The lower boxes of the Opera House have been reserved for Honolulu women who are interested in suffrage.

FORMER HONOLULAN USING CARTER AS HORRIBLE EXAMPLE

H. M. Dow, Now in Maine, Writes of "Undated Resignation Episode"

From far-off Maine comes an echo of Hawaiian political history in the form of an argument advanced by a former citizen of the Territory, who wields the said bit of history effectively against the alleged monarchial tendencies of Theodore Roosevelt. In the Portland, Me., Evening Express & Advertiser of October 3 is printed a lengthy communication signed by T. M. D. A marked copy of the paper has come to Honolulu, and the reference is so plain that the writer is recognized as T. M. Dow, for many years chief clerk at the Honolulu police station.

Those who were here at the time Dow was hailed into the dist. court to answer for an alleged shortage in his accounts, and who remember the

MCCANDLESS WON'T SPEND MUCH MONEY

Democratic Leader Declares He Will Not Invest in Luau or Runners

HIS ATTITUDE NO HIT AT PARTY HEADQUARTERS

County Organization Angry Because Off-Tapped Barrel Fails Now

L. L. McCandless, Democratic candidate for delegate, has not opened up the money-barrel in this campaign and isn't going to open it up, according to a statement he made this morning. He declares that he will confine his campaign expenditures to his own personal expense in his trips around this and others of the islands, that he isn't going to invest in any campaign runners, and that he will make public, even before election, a list of what his outlay has been and for what purposes the money was used.

"No matter what the other side is doing, I'm not going to give a lot of luau and employ a lot of runners," said McCandless this morning. "I understand the Republicans are employing as high as twenty runners in a precinct, but I'm not going to do it. Of course I have to pay my way as I go campaigning—I can't burn on my trips around the islands, but I certainly am not going to spend a lot of money."

"Will you be willing to make a public statement as to your campaign expenditures?" he was asked.

"Certainly I will, I'm going to do it before election."

"Yes, before election, I'm perfectly willing to show where my money has been spent. It has all gone legitimately, for my own expenses."

McCandless feels very confident of the election of a Democratic president. He says Wilson is a certainty. "You can hammer the Democrats now, but let me tell you that you and all the Republicans will have to get

New Japanese Consul-General Arrives On Chiyo Maru Today

With the arrival today of the Japanese liner Chiyo Maru from Japan came the Hon. Hisakichi Eitake, His Imperial Majesty's new consul general to Hawaii. He comes here to represent the emperor of Japan.

The new consul general was greeted by Acting Consul General Kurusu at the wharf, and the new arrival was then escorted to the official residence of the Japanese consul on Nuuanu street.

The Japanese merchants will give a reception in honor of their new consul general in the near future, probably at the Mochizuki Club, Waikiki.

Consul Eitake succeeds the Hon. Senichi Uyeno, who held the post here for a number of years and was popular with his own countrymen, Americans and in fact all nationalities. Under Consul Uyeno, the annual celebrations of the late emperor's birthday became notable social functions to which hundreds of the townspeople, including the diplomatic corps and army and navy officers stationed here, were always invited. Mr. Uyeno, it was hoped, would be stationed here, but instead he has been promoted to a higher post.

There was a rumor that T. Tanaka, a well-known member of the consular corps, would succeed Uyeno, but this proved groundless and Eitake's appointment was announced some weeks ago. He left for his post here almost immediately. Mr. Y. Mori has been a consul during a large part of the time since Mr. Uyeno was relieved and has won much praise for the discharge of his duties.

The new consul has had a long and distinguished career in the service of his country and has filled many posts with much credit.

SHERMAN'S ILLNESS IS PUZZLE TO PHYSICIANS

Diagnosis Uncertain And All Remedies Fail--Grave Alarm For Life Felt

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Vice-President James S. Sherman is critically ill at his home here, so ill, in fact, that the most serious alarm for his life is felt.

Although a number of noted physicians have been attending the vice-president, his condition has failed to show improvement after several remedies have been tried. The diagnosis of the physicians shows that the nature of the disease is not clearly known.

Turkish Losses Continue

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 28.—The Bulgarian troops have succeeded in capturing a military train loaded with troops, supplies and arms for Adrianople, and by this coup have cut off Turkish communication with the strong-hold.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Turkey, Oct. 28.—The Turkish troops evacuated the city of Uskup, it is told here in reports, in such panic that they killed one another, mistaking friend for enemy. The Serbs not only took the city, but captured 113 field guns, fifteen howitzers and 5,000 rifles, besides hundreds of wagons, miscellaneous supplies and much rolling stock. The Serbian loss is given as 25 killed and 4 wounded.

Says Wilson Is Certain

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 28.—William F. McAdams, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and manager of the national campaign, gave out a statement today in which he said that Democratic defeat next Tuesday is virtually inconceivable.

MILWAUKEE GIRL WILL TESTIFY AGAINST JOHNSON

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 28.—Lucille Cameron, the Milwaukee girl who was alleged to have been abducted by Jack Johnson, the champion pugilist, has agreed to testify against Johnson.

An important meeting of the Republican leaders was held this morning in the headquarters to discuss the campaign for the closing week.

SEVEN HUNDRED FROM GAMBLERS

Seventy-eight Chinese, Japanese, Hawaiians and others contributed seven hundred dollars to the maintenance of the city and county government as a result of the series of raids instituted by Chief of Detectives McDuffie and officers on Saturday and Sunday evening.

Judge Larnach proved a terror to the gentry that for months past has been enjoying a quiet little game of chance, feeling secure in escaping with a slight infliction of the penalty provided by the statutes.

District court was thronged with Orientals this morning. Professional gamblers, crap shooters and novices were alike rounded up in the raids on well known resorts.

In several instances bail deposited at the station was forfeited, the Chinese and Japanese fearing the possibility of facing a conviction at court with Judge Larnach presiding.

Clerk Fred Weed figured up the total this morning at the close of the session and made the pleasing discovery that fines, costs and forfeitures totaled $690.00.

For the third time in several months the officers visited the Chinese gambling joint on Maunakea street where 43 Orientals were found. Most of this bunch were released on bail fixed at ten dollars.

At two other visitations from McDuffie and his men 69 men alleged as gamblers were placed under arrest. In one case the players and watchmen attempted to toss evidence out of the windows but were frustrated by the quickness displayed by the officers.

Six old timers who have repeatedly faced the lower court on a charge of gambling failed to respond to the roll call this morning and therefore forfeited bail to the tune of $10 to $25.

In the charges preferred against 14 followers of fickle fortune found at Ania Park several on pleading guilty to the charge were given fines of $25 while others escaped with the assessment of the regulation of $5 and costs.

Twelve defendants asked for more time in which to enter plea and their case will come up for hearing tomorrow morning. The McDuffie raid of a Kalihii gambling establishment brought considerable cash to municipal coffers.
